have been greatly impacted by the global pandemic

The Global Pandemic Caused Major Disruptions to Critical Mental Health Services

- Over 60% reported disruptions to mental health services for vulnerable people, including children and adolescents (72%), older adults (70%), and women requiring antenatal or postnatal services (61%).
- 67% saw disruptions to counseling and psychotherapy; 65% to critical harm reduction services; and 45% to opioid agonist maintenance treatment for opioid dependence.
- More than a third (35%) reported disruptions to emergency interventions, including those for people experiencing prolonged seizures; severe substance use withdrawal syndromes; and delirium, often a sign of a serious underlying medical condition.
- 30% reported disruptions to access for medications for mental, neurological and substance use disorders.
- Around three-quarters reported at least partial disruptions to school and workplace mental health services (78% and 75% respectively).

The Demands

Across the nation, students have risen up to demand an end to systemic and structural racism on campus. Here are their demands.

Note: These demands were compiled in 2016 from protesters across the country. They are a resource for campus organizers fighting for equity and justice in America.*

Important Perspective

- A one-size-fits-all approach to promoting positive mental health and preventing suicide is ineffective, culturally insensitive and ignores the impact of racial and bias related trauma on emotional health and well-being.
- We can raise awareness and continue to identify and reduce unique barriers to better support young people who are underrepresented and underserved.
- We can commit to helping to strategically support young people based on data-informed and community sourced interventions and promising practices.

Barriers to Seeking Help

- Cultural or social stigma
- Family and cultural norms surrounding mental health
- Discomfort with counseling options
- Lack of representation among providers
- Health system disparities
- Accessibility to care
- Insurance limitations
- Lack of financial resources

How do we balance expecting students to be “College Ready” vs. colleges needing to be “Student Ready”?

Creating a Culture of Care

- Collect and utilize data collected from students to prepare for their arrival on your campuses.
- Provide education for staff, parents, and students.
- Promote social and emotional competency and build resilience among faculty and staff.
- Foster a positive and safe campus environment.
- Prioritize, enhance, and fund culturally responsive campus mental health support systems and resources.

A Welcome Wagon in Uncertain Times

When Kingsborough Community College president Claudia Schrader couldn't greet incoming students on campus, she went to visit them at home. She hopes to turn the "welcome wagon" into a Kingsborough tradition.

Equity in Mental Health Framework for supporting students of color

1. Identify and promote the mental health and well-being of students of color as a campus-wide priority.
2. Engage students to provide guidance and feedback on matters of student mental health and emotional well-being.
3. Actively recruit, train, and retain a diverse and culturally competent faculty and professional staff.
4. Create opportunities to engage around national and international issues/events.
5. Create dedicated roles to support well-being and success of students of color.
6. Support and promote accessible, safe communication with campus administration and an effective response system.
7. Offer a range of supportive programs and services in varied formats.
8. Help students learn about programs and services by advertising and promoting through multiple channels.
9. Identify and utilize culturally relevant and promising programs and practices, and collect data on effectiveness.
10. Participate in resource and information sharing (within and between schools).

Improving Mental Health of Student Parents: Recommendations

1. Train counselors and other on-campus mental health providers on unique stressors faced by this population and specifically in trauma-informed care. Train faculty and staff in understanding and being sensitive to the unique stressors faced by parenting students to allow for a culture shift whereby parenting students are fully factored into professorial and staff decisions and policies.
2. Create spaces on campus that meet the specific needs of student parents and help foster a sense of belonging among these students. This includes encouraging creation of spaces and activities for children at all school events.
3. Facilitate affinity groups and mentoring programs for older and younger parenting students.
4. Create policies that allow for flexibility for parenting students in the classroom.
5. Regularly collect data on students who are parents – their mental health, their needs, their utilization of on-campus services, their feelings of connectedness and belonging on campus – in order to inform how to best support these students.
6. Schools should create purposeful plans to help address the basic needs of parenting students.
7. Identify strategies to ensure parents have reliable access to childcare, including on-campus childcare options.
8. Make parenting students feel more “visible” by representing them on campus materials and creating customized orientation materials.

The Proud & Thriving Framework: Supporting the Mental Health of LGBTQ+ Students

Source: <https://jedfoundation.org/proud-thriving-framework/>

Recommendations for High Schools, Colleges, & Universities

- Keep learning about LGBTQ+ identities, language, and experiences
- Use chosen names and pronouns
- Revisit programmatic and educational curriculum for LGBTQ+ influences
- Support openly LGBTQ+ teachers, faculty, staff, and administrative peers.
- Attend cultural and social events, learning opportunities, and mentoring programs to better connect with LGBTQ+ students.

A vertical strip on the left side of the slide shows a close-up of several white bookshelves filled with books of various colors and sizes, creating a textured background.

Recommendations for High Schools, Colleges, & Universities

- Collect and Examine Data
- Update Policies and Procedures
- Resource programs, centers, offices, departments, and roles that provide protective factors and/or reduce risk factors for LGBTQ+ students.
- Prioritize LGBTQ+ Cultural Competence for all faculty, staff, and administrators.
- Remove/reduce barriers to seeking and accessing, mental health, academic, and support resources.
- For High Schools: Consider offering a training series to family members, guardians, and supporters to help them better understand and support LGBTQ+ students.
